Empowerment can help women seafarers navigate their careers with dignity and pride: Capt. Aakriti Barthwal

In August 2005, nine girls enrolled with the Maritime Training Institute, The Shipping Corporation of India (SCI), with the dream of making a successful career in the male-dominated shipping industry. This was a unique situation at the time, as very few females chose to train as pre-sea cadets. The nine girls were equally divided into three batches comprising 40 students in each.

“The numbers clearly established the fact that it was a male-dominated industry. It was also a very bold step for us nine girls to be joining shipping at that time. Later, I did realise that very few of us would come up (the ranks),” said Capt. Aakriti Barthwal, QHSE Superintendent, Synergy Navis Marine Pvt. Ltd.

Government of India Taking Measures Against Misuse of Personal Data

Unsolicited Commercial Communications (UCC) are regulated by the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI). TRAI has issued Telecommunications Commercial Communications Consumers Preference Regulations, 2018 (TCCCPR-2018) which deals with UCC. Under the TCCCPR-2018 regulations a number of directions have been issued for the implementation of its provisions. These directions inter-alia have provisions for registering preferences for commercial communication where a telecom subscriber can opt to block all commercial communications or can selectively block commercial communications as per preference categories. Customers can register complaint against senders of UCC through Mobile App, sending SMS or calling on a specific number 1909.
